Introduction

I was raised in the small Indian village of Dhoraji, Gujarat, and attended St. Peters High School, a boarding school where I gained independence skills.

After graduating from high school, I moved to the United Kingdom to pursue a BBA at De-Montfort University Leicester. I have more than 13 years of experience in the field of metal and plastic recycling, and I am extremely motivated and passionate about it.

I joined my family business in 2010 and was immediately entrusted with managing the metal scrap yard in Ajman. I worked to strengthen our position in the market by building a solid reputation for our business. In 2016, I wanted to diversify our family business and wanted to launch a new venture in the polymer (plastic field).

After examining the challenges associated with plastic recycling, I recognized an opportunity and established division. I became interested in plastic and began learning about polymers, and in 2019 I proposed building a factory to recycle plastic in Dubai, United Arab Emirates.

The facility have begun production of plastic products in 2020, and we have gained a reputation as a top supplier in the Middle East. I have a strong dedication to sustainability and waste reduction and am a dedicated environmentalist and business leader.

I have over 13 years of expertise in the recycling sector, and I've made a name for myself as a pioneer in the recycling of metal and plastic. By reducing waste and promoting sustainable practices, I am committed to having a positive impact on the environment.
